Section K3.9 Subsistence. This introduction should describe the purpose of this appendix. How does it inform the environmental impact statement and put in context the information in the main subsistence chapter? It should also describe how the information was gathered that is represented on the maps and in the discussion.

General. The community descriptions are interesting and well-presented. There appears to be wide diversity among community residents and uses of resources in different areas. Is there anything that can be concluded from these data that would inform the main Subsistence section? A summary or conclusions section would be helpful.

Figures K3.9-3 and K3.9-4. The salmon and non-salmon circles overlap enough in the rivers that it is difficult to tell where the salmon harvest is, and this is a critical piece of information. Separate maps for salmon and non-salmon harvest would avoid this problem.
